Re: Announcement of the New Director of Archives and Records

Please join us in congratulating one of the members of our staff, Angelique M. Richardson, who has been promoted to Director of Archives and Records for The Archdiocese of Atlanta.

Angelique has been the Archivist for our archdiocese since 2012. Before moving to Atlanta, she worked as a Project Archivist for The Winthrop Group, Inc. at the Kraft Foods Inc. Corporate Archives in the Chicago suburbs from 2009-2012. In 2011, she became a Certified Archivist (CA) and has since kept active memberships in six different professional organizations, including the Association of Catholic Diocesan Archivists (ACDA) for which she is currently Webmaster and Treasurer.

In 2009, Angelique graduated from the University Of Michigan School Of Information with a Master of Science in Information (MSI) specializing in Archives and Records Management. While pursuing her MSI, Angelique interned for The Coca-Cola Company in their corporate archives and for Entertainment Weekly's online magazine archives. Angelique's undergraduate degree is a Bachelor of Arts in International Business and German from Bradley University.
